

DR. LIN YOLA

School of Strategic and Global Studies, Universitas Indonesia

No, Salemba Raya Road, 10430, Jakarta, Indonesia

lin.yola@ui.ac.id

Dr. Lin Yola is a Senior Lecturer at the School of Strategic and Global Studies, Universitas Indonesia, with a strong academic and professional background in urban and energy, is best known for her model of 'Climatically Responsive Urban Configuration'. Her significant works impulse planners and stakeholders to confront climate challenges in strategizing urban spaces to create conducive living in today's city area. She believes that urban and regional development urgently need global ecological and social justice. Her projects and publications also impose technology innovation as the strategic methodology in addressing global development issues.

Dr. Lin Yola has years of experience in an Academic and Administrative Position in some international university programs. Currently, she is Manager at International Collaboration Division at School of Strategic and Global Studies, Universitas Indonesia. Dr. Lin Yola is also highly active as Publication Editor and Reviewer, Curriculum Developer, International Event Chairman, and Community Services.